A Message From Our President

Aloha Members!!

Auction Night – November 7th meeting – what a great time to expand your collections with the unusual or blooming or basically anything you've been wanting to try, but were hesitant due to cost.

Auction night is when a LOT of plants are available for you to bid on for very, very low cost. This is when I put on my 'mad scientist' hat – and buy one of those 'weird' species or a whole new type that I have been wanting to try, knowing that if I do send it to that great greenhouse in Orchid Heaven, at least it was not an expensive experiment. (That sounds so ruthless and heartless, those poor Orchids!!) I still am a little sad when I come across one that I've killed, but I keep trying to learn, trying to do better so that I have less fatalities in the future. Contrary to rumors, I AM getting better! I hope to see you all breaking out of your comfort zone and experimenting.....Auction Night is the time to do that!

See you at the meeting.
~Sheron

Orchid Tip of the Month by Scot Mitamura

November puts us in the middle of our Hawaiian autumn. The weather is getting wetter and the days are getting shorter, so we need to start cutting back on the watering of our orchids. Hono Hono dendrobiums will soon stop growing, so we will stop fertilizing and cut back on the watering. Phalaenopsis will begin spiking for their late winter to spring flowering, so we can still fertilize them. For me it is still cattleya season and there are tons of blooms. I guess my summer watering and fertilizing is paying off.

We were a little disappointed with our third place finish at the Honolulu Orchid Show. An excellent expression of the show theme is not enough to overcome a lack of blooming orchids. If we do not have enough flowers for the shows, the answer is Auction Night!!! Our November meeting will be our big annual event and your best chance to acquire some really choice orchids at great prices. So save your money, invite your friends and family to attend. We will follow up with our Christmas Party in December and we will be raffling off a crazy amount of orchids for only a dollar. For both events, the board has approved a large budget and I will work hard to bring in orchids from the best nurseries around the state. It is the best time to grow your orchid collections, so hopefully we will never be short on flowers again!

~ Scot

Insider Information

Here's more information about how some of our upcoming events work.

Windward Orchid Society Auction Night Guidelines

Please do not enter the auction and baked goods areas until they are officially opened at 7:30 p.m.

You will have approximately 30 minutes to review the plants and place your bids.

You may pay by major credit card, cash, or personal check.

The bidding process:

- Using only the #2 pencils provided, clearly print your first name, the initial letter of your last name, and your bid amount on the slip of paper.*
- Bid in $1.00 increments only.
- Fold the paper in half to hide your bid and carefully place it underneath the plant. Do not tuck it on the plant or in the pot.
- Do not look at other bids.
- Bids less than a table's posted starting bid will not be considered.

When the auction closes, WOS members will reveal the winning bids and you will be asked to retrieve the plants you won. Keep your winning bids with the plants and proceed to the payment tables.

* The reason for only using the #2 pencil to write down your bid, is because writings in inks will smear if the plant happens to be damp from watering.

Thank you for supporting the Windward Orchid Society

Christmas Party Raffle for Orchids and other Plants

If you want to participate in the raffle at the Christmas Party, here's how it works.

- 1) Buy raffle tickets for $1. each,
- 2) Clearly write your name on the back of each of your tickets.
- 3) Separate your tickets and mix them into the drawing jar.
- 4) Tickets will be randomly drawn from the jar and the name on the ticket will be read out loud.
- 5) If your name is called, raise your hand and someone will bring you the plant that you won.

WOS board members may use its discretion in handing out prizes. For example, if a name is illegible or if no one claims the prize, another ticket can be drawn.

Christmas Party Grab Bag Exchange Game

Each party attendee brings a gift wrapped package worth about $5.

Place your gift on the table with all the other packages.

The gift exchange games vary but, everyone will end up with a gift to take home.
